GENERAL INFORMATION

The Film Festival

The Media Communications Association – International, New York Chapter and the United Nations Department of Public Information are pleased to announce Stories from the Field, the Second Annual United Nations Documentary Film Festival. The Festival is presented in cooperation with The New School. It will take place on Saturday, April 22, and Sunday, April 23, 2006, and will feature film screenings, panel discussions with the filmmakers, and award presentations. The films and their screening times will be listed on the Festival Web site, www.mcainy.org/unfilm, on February 21, 2006.

All filmmakers from or contracted by United Nations offices, funds, programmes, and agencies around the world have been invited to submit entries for consideration. There is no charge to submit an entry. Selected entries will be screened in the Tishman Auditorium, The New School, 66 West 12 Street, New York, NY 10011, and announced to the media. The filmmakers of the selected entries will be invited to attend or send a representative to the Festival.

Panel discussions at the Festival will feature the filmmakers, and invited representatives from the United Nations, The New School, and MCA-I NY.

NOTE: This year for the first time, the competition is open to filmmakers from the general public, who may compete for Best Public Film (60 min and under) and Audience Award for Best Film. Judging categories are explained in further detail below.

Background

The timing of Stories from the Field has special significance since it coincides with the 60th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations www.un.org and reflects the United Nations Millennium Development Goals, which pledge to:

- ◆ Eradicate extreme poverty and hunger
- ◆ Achieve universal primary education
- ◆ Promote gender equality and empower women
- ◆ Reduce child mortality
- ◆ Improve maternal health
- ◆ Combat HIV/AIDS, malaria and other diseases
- ◆ Ensure environmental sustainability
- ◆ Develop a global partnership for development

The producers and supporters of Stories from the Field embrace these goals and praise the historic vision that resulted in the founding of the United Nations 60 years ago. We hope our efforts will advance in some small way the United Nations promise of peace, development, equality and justice for all people.

Creative Guidelines

UN filmmakers are invited to submit works that reflect one or more of the eight Millennium Development Goals. In addition, their films may:

- ◆ spotlight some of the people and cultures in areas with a United Nations presence throughout the world and discover what these groups are doing to overcome challenges such as poverty, hunger, disease, civil unrest, trafficking, and injustice;
- ◆ show how a particular United Nations program or service is helping a developing community to develop a civil society, self-determination, and a better quality of life for its people;
- ◆ afford those in the trenches—United Nations workers, community leaders, and the people they serve—the opportunity to share their stories of adversity and triumph.

Public filmmakers are invited to submit works that address one or more of the eight Millennium Development Goals.

Finalists will be selected by a screening committee of United Nations officials, MCA-I representatives, and New School faculty based on the topical relevance, artistic merit, and production values of their work. Placement and location in the Festival will depend on the availability of screening times.
